UNPRECEDENTED WIN FOR ROOSEVELT AND THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES

Mississippi Votes Against Tax Amendment—Doom of Sales Tax Token Foreseen—Several Mississippi Counties Vote Beer and Wine Out.

The Democratic landslide for the Democratic party and the overwhelming re-election of President Roosevelt of Tuesday is well known over the country and needs no detailed chronicle in the weekly press. Daily newspapers have covered the story of unprecedented victory for the Democrats from day to day until there remains little or nothing new to be chronicled.

Local results have not as yet been officially tabulated. However, the complete figures for every precinct in Hancock county will appear in the columns of The Sea Coast Echo next week. Detailed results will be duly published of the record.

Doom of Sales Tax Tokens.
President Roosevelt's victory over Gov. Landon is 35 to 1 and it is possible might go higher, according to present indications.

From Jackson John B. Hudson, Jackson correspondent, reports the sales tax tokens, millions of which were placed in circulation last summer when the merchants' sales tax was turned into a consumers' tax, were turned down overwhelmingly by Mississippians Tuesday when they rejected a proposed amendment to the state constitution legalizing the fractional coins used for tax paying.

Beer and Wine Outlawed.
The voters in at least six, and possibly seven counties, likewise outlawed the sale of light wine and beer bringing the number of allegedly "dry" counties to nearly 30, the returns reveal.

There was one county, Forrest, of which Hattiesburg is the county seat, however, which voted down the proposal to drive the legal sale of light wine and beer from the county.

Must Await Official Figures.
The usual ratio of about 35 to 1 votes were cast in Mississippi for President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democratic ticket. Complete returns must await the official canvass.

President Roosevelt's landslide to victory is without precedent. Both Senate and House will be overwhelmingly Democratic. There has been success for the Democrats and the New Deal all down the line.

THE TUNG OIL INDUSTRY MAKES FOR GREAT PROMISE ON MISS. COAST

Problem of Keeping Rural Schools Open Eight Months May Be Solved For The Future in Planting Sixteenth Section Lands.

Problems of keeping rural schools open for the full eight months session in gulf coast counties may be solved for the future in planting sixteenth section lands in tung oil.

Approximately 1920 acres of sixteenth section lands in Harrison county are being planted in tung oil seedlings with labor furnished by the Works Progress Administration.

This is somewhat of an innovation for Harrison county as only approximately 800 acres plantings in tung oil now exist in that county, but it is in the experimental stage in Pearl River county, having been advocated there by L. O. Crosby of Piquette, several years ago.

Mr. Crosby has expressed the opinion that the sixteenth section plantings in Pearl River county will in the course of a few years, be the source of sufficient income to maintain their schools. Private interest plantings in Pearl River county range in the neighborhood of 15,000 acres.

Although a native of China, the tung oil tree has been found to thrive in certain types of soil in coastal counties of Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Alabama, Georgia and Florida. It can be grown as far north as 150 to 200 miles from the coast, but frequent and heavy late frosts do great damage.

Trees begin fruiting at the age of three or four years and are considered mature when nine years old. They bear profitably for from thirty to thirty-five years.

An acre of tung trees may conservatively be expected to yield a money crop of between $90 and $165 per year from a yield of from 900 to 1650 pounds of oil a year. Using these figures as a basis, the plantings in Harrison county to be undertaken by the WPA, may be expected to yield a return of from $1,728 to $3,168 annually.

This method of financing school sessions of the future may prove a boon to coastal counties, especially (Continued on page 4)

CLASS RECEIVES ORDERS

Seminarians at St. Augustine's Ordained to the Subdiaconate—Bishop Gerow Officiates.

On Sunday morning, November 1, the feast of All Saints many gathered at St. Augustine's Seminary, Bay St. Louis, Miss., to witness again the impressive ceremony of ordaining two seminarians to the subdiaconate by His Excellency, the Most Reverend Richard O. Gerow, D. D., Bishop of Natchez, Miss. His Excellency celebrated the Mass and was assisted, besides the other subdeacons and deacon, by the Reverend Vincent Smith, S. V. D., of Lafayette, La., who is one of the first priests of the Seminary and was incidentally ordained by His Excellency two years ago. The music was rendered by the seminary choir, and was under the direction of the Rev. John Gasper, S. V. D. The seminarians to be ordained to the subdiaconate were the Reverend Clarence Howard, S. V. D., of Norfolk, Virginia, and the Reverend Francis Wells, S. V. D., of St. Louis, Missouri.

Previous to these solemn rites the Bishop conferred with the two first Minor Orders of the Kist, of Johnston, Pa.; Joseph Bowers of British West Indies; Walter Borwan of Washington, D. C.; Carmen Chace of Opelousas, La.; John Dauphine, of Port Arthur, Texas, and Leo Woods, of Kokomo, Indiana.

This was the largest class in the history of St. Augustine Seminary to receive orders. The two seminarians who received Subdiaconate will be ordained to the priesthood next May.

DRIVE FOR MEMBERS FOR CLUB

St. Joseph Academy Parents' Club Seeking To Expand Usefulness.

An intensive drive will be launched at once for a membership drive for St. Joseph Academy Parents' Club, an organization that means not only so much for the institution but for the welfare of the many Bay St. Louis children attending.

The club is already well known, its aims purposes, etc. It is perhaps better known to the outsiders and possibly others as the Organization sponsoring the annual Bay St. Louis court and ball. It is, however, more directly known to many of the children and parents who receive so much from the school.

United action means for so much. It was for that purpose the Parents' Club was organized some years ago and results best speak for themselves. Since, in a small way, so much has been accomplished and there remains so much more to be done, it was thus proposed that the club's usefulness be expanded by increased membership. In unity there being strength, in numbers more power for good it was resolved a drive for membership be inaugurated, and not only patrons but friends and other civic-minded and progressive spirits be invited to join.

Mrs. A. G. Favre is president of the club, with an able corps of officers and assistants. These ladies are duly enthusiastic and The Echo knows their efforts will meet with success.

The annual dues are only $1.00 per annum, less than 10 cents per month. No such amount could be put to a wider use for school and youth, for home and country since it is in the class room impressions for good are formed and the character of men and women of the future are molded and formed by environment and moral influence.

K. C. CLASS INITIATION NOV. 15TH.

First Three Degrees of Order to Be Exemplified—Committees Announced.

The beautiful and impressive ceremonies of the first three degrees of the Knights of Columbus will be exemplified before a large class of candidates on Sunday, November 15th. In addition to the candidates from Bay St. Louis, quite a number from the various Coast councils will be on hand; as Gulfport, Biloxi and Pascagoula have made preparations for this initiation.

The candidates and members of the Council will march from the Knights of Columbus home on Main street to the Church of Our Lady of the Gulf where they will attend Mass. After Mass they will again march to the K. of C. Hall, where lunch will be served to the candidates. The initiation will be held immediately after the lunch; and we might add that one of the best Degree teams of the South will exemplify the degree work.

The K. of C. Council in Bay St. Louis has been meeting every Monday night at 8, in order to make the necessary arrangements for the initiation. Grand Knight A. G. Favre has appointed the following members for Committee work:

Reception Committee: Arthur A. Seaford.

Luncheon Committee: Leo Blaize, Sr., chairman; Michael Benigno, Raymond Carrio, Andrew Becker.

Badge Committee: Alden Mauffray, chairman; John Ladner, J. C. Roland.

Candidate Committee: Leo Blaize, Jr., chairman; Alden Mauffray, Leo Murtagh.

Members of the Pere LeDuc Council 1522 have been active for the past few weeks, and we feel sure that this initiation will be a great success. Plans are underway for a re-arrangement of the entire hall so as to include a Club Room and a Gymnasium with showers. When these items are finished, Pere LeDuc Council will be one of the most active in the State. All members are urged to see that their dues have been paid up, for they cannot afford to miss this initiation. Leo Blaize, Jr., is financial secretary, and as he is located in the Clerk's office at the Court House, he will be always ready and willing to give the members and candidates all the necessary information.

Even the Literary Digest is not infallible. Its pre-election poll gave Roosevelt 16 states out of 48.

GULF COAST PHYSICIAN TAKES LIFE

Dr. W. A. Dearman, 59, of Long Beach, Ends Life With Pistol Shot at Jackson

Dr. William A. Dearman, resident of Long Beach, and one of the best known coast physicians and personally popular in this immediate locality and the Kilm-Fenton sector of Hancock county, and who had been on the medical staff of the Mississippi Hospital for the Insane since last spring, shot and killed himself at his home on the hospital grounds near Jackson Wednesday morning.

Dr. C. D. Mitchell, superintendent of the hospital, who announced the death a suicide, attributed the deed to despondency over personal financial difficulties.

The physician was found by members of his family when they heard the report of a pistol at 5:30 o'clock in the morning. No message was left.

"I deeply regret his death," said Dr. Mitchell, "He was a very fine man and a loyal friend."

The funeral was held from Wright and Ferguson funeral home in Jackson Thursday afternoon, with interment in a Jackson cemetery.

Dr. Dearman, 59 years old, was born at Purvis, Miss., and was educated at Tulane University. He practiced medicine in Gulfport and Long Beach for about 25 years before going to Jackson.

He established the first laboratory clinic on the Mississippi Coast. He is survived by his widow, the former Miss Stella Gates of Long Beach; two daughters, Mrs. Edith Louise Virden and Miss Stella Margaret Dearman, Jackson, and his mother, Mrs. Albert Dearman, Hattiesburg.

ROTARY HEARS SPEAKER

Walter Reed, Hotel Miramar, Pass Christian, Discusses Tourists' Business.

Pass Christian Rotary Club officially presented the program for Bay St. Louis Rotary Club on Wednesday of this week, at Hotel Weston. Mr. Reed was selected by the Pass Christian club as the speaker for the Bay Club and he accompanied by quite a number of Pass Rotarians. It was quite an occasion and stimulated considerable enthusiasm in local Rotary circles. Some thirty men sat at the luncheon table.

Prefacing his remarks, Mr. Reed said Rotary should be considered as an inspirational group rather than an active one. "The prime object of Rotary," he said "is to foster the ideal of service. The founders of Rotary evidently made a distinction between the performance of the service itself and the contemplation of the ideal service. Their original intention was not that their members should be an active group taking upon themselves the performance of services that should be performed by a Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, School Board and other civic agencies. In fact, they prescribed against this, choosing to consider Rotary an inspirational group rather than an active one."

Mr. Reed stressed on the proposition that Bay St. Louis should get its share of tourist business, like the balance of the Coast. During the course of his remarks he said the Gulf Coast had 18 hotels, accommodations for 2500 guests, not including boarding houses and other places. So many rooms at an average of $4.00 per day he said, should bring to the Coast $10,000.00 per day during the tourist season.

"It is my business, you men of Bay St. Louis, to see that the tourist has a chance to spend his money in your town," said Mr. Reed. "You must build him hotels, camps, boarding houses and supply parking space for his trailer. You must give him a golf course or provide a road to one. You must provide boats and fishing tackle and places for his entertainment. Sell him your town. Try to make him like it enough to want to stay down South on the Mississippi Gulf Coast where two twelve-dollar seekers suits will last all the year, where there are no coal bills, where rents are low and where food can be caught with a hook or a cartridge traded for a meal."

A more complete report of Mr. Reed's address will appear in these columns next week, well worthy of reproduction as a constructive effort for our community's betterment.

OUTLOOK GOOD FOR BUREAU

Outlook For Organization Of Farm Unit In Hancock County Favorable

Community meetings have been held in seven communities in the county, with a total attendance of approximately 150 farm men and women. At these meetings the farmers seem to be very much interested in the organization of the Farm Bureau in Hancock county and offered their services in putting on the membership drive in their respective communities.

At our first leaders meeting which was held about three weeks ago, the goal for membership in the county was set at 300, and the indications are now that we will go along ways toward getting this number. The Membership drive must be concluded around the 14th of this month in order that the membership will have time to set up the county organization; elect its officers, and select a delegate to represent Hancock county at the State Farm Bureau Convention which will be held in Jackson, Miss., on November 20th.

The county agent wishes to urge every farmer in the county regardless of what scale he might be farming to join in this great movement and help fight for quality for Agriculture, justice for all which is the watchword for the American Farm Bureau Federation.

NEW 1937 CHEVROLETS TO BE SHOWN IN BAY ST. LOUIS SATURDAY

A. E. Voight, Local Dealer, To Present New Cars to View—New Designs.

The new Chevrolet cars for 1937 will be shown in Bay St. Louis Saturday by the local dealer—Gulf Chevrolet Company.

Mr. A. E. Voight local dealer and his salesmen Jack Ladner and Jim Sylvester have viewed the new cars during the Chevrolet dealers meeting in New Orleans some few days ago and say the cars are entirely new in design and also mechanically. By far the finest car ever built by Chevrolet.

The dealerships throughout the country have already secured over 100,000 retail orders for 1937 Chevrolet Company hope to have enough cars in the hands of its dealers so that 50,000 retail deliveries can be made on the Opening Day Saturday, November 7th.

The local company, Gulf Chevrolet company have taken a number of retail orders from purchasers who have not even seen a picture of the new 1937 Chevrolet, and, with the tremendous interest shown every where is going to be a matter of getting enough cars to fill orders Mr. Voight said.

Asserting that "under present conditions" the state will "be able to stand an additional appropriation for the 'common schools,'" Governor Hugh White announced that he will convene the legislature in extraordinary session on Monday, November 23.

The governor said "two or three other matters probably would be submitted at the session, but he declined to indicate what those matters are."

The governor also evaded a direct answer to the question of whether the state can stand an additional appropriation for the schools at this time without an increase in taxes, although he explained that the purpose of the extraordinary session at this time is to get legislative action before the counties finally fix their local tax levies for school purposes.

In this connection the governor expressed the hope that the counties will defer final action on their tax levies until the legislature has worked out a plan for the schools and asked that special emphasis be laid upon that matter in publicity regarding the extraordinary session.

The session which convenes three days before Thanksgiving will be the first year of the White administration. The first special session was convened during the summer for the enactment of the governor's industrial program. The regular session which met in January was one of the shortest biennial meetings of the state and the summer session likewise finished its work in a hurry and adjourned.

Governor White is hopeful that the "school session" will be able to complete its work and adjourn around the first of December, thus giving the boards of supervisors, meeting the first Monday in December, ample opportunity to adjust their local tax levies in the light of definite knowledge of what they may expect in the way of school financing from the state.

The call for the session came suddenly after the governor had spent several hours the night before in conference with members of the school study commission appointed under a resolution of the last extraordinary session to make a statewide survey of the common school financing problem.

The executive told newspapermen that members of the commission feel they can complete their survey within three weeks and thus be prepared to make a definite report and recommendation to the legislature when it meets.

AGAINST A STATE POLICE FORCE.

THE recent suggestion of a State police force is not meeting with general favor. On the contrary, serious objections are heard from all parts of the State. It is argued that the sheriff and other officials of the counties are well able and qualified to take care of the affairs of their respective official bailiwicks and that State interference is not necessary.

If there are open saloons running in violation of the State prohibition laws, open gambling houses and gaming devices allowed to operate, the situation can well be taken care of at home. The will of the people, especially backed by law, is not only supreme but may well prevail without outside assistance.

The governor evidently does not like to be perturbed, for the Associated Press says:

"Until he can ask the legislature to provide him with a state police force, Governor White has threatened to use the National Guard in that capacity to suppress reported lawlessness in Rankin county. Governor White was angered when he returned to his office after the absence of four days in Texas to hear reports that Rankin county gambling houses and saloons, which he ordered closed two months ago had re-opened during his absence."

Commenting on the foregoing, the Natchez Democrat gives this well taken editorial viewpoint: Governor White is quoted further as saying that he will ask the legislature, either at its next session or possibly before to provide him with a state police force to "enforce the law."

It is not necessary for the governor to have an army of his very own, a navy or a fleet of aircraft to bring Rankin county saloon keepers and gamblers to terms.

One muscular constable armed with an axe to use on gambling devices and a few padlocks could liquidate the situation in short order. All prohibition laws enacted by the state of Mississippi remain on the statute books. It is not at all necessary to have a gubernatorial army, which would be somewhat expensive to maintain in a state that has difficulty in keeping its schools open on account of lack of funds, in order that a "seige of New Orleans" may be enacted in Rankin or any other county.

Granted that the governor means well and is absolutely sincere, he should realize that a Mississippi standing army, constabulary, state police, or whatnot—members were called "cossacks" in Louisiana, in former more hectic political days, would be expensive, that it would be a further centralization of power in Jackson and could be used for building up a political machine.

It was only a few months ago that a committee appointed by the legislature to investigate county affairs gave a program which would virtually deprive the counties of self government through their boards of supervisors; county sheriffs have been "relieved" of the collection of many taxes. State police would mean more centralization.

Mississippi has an ample supply of law enforcement officers. Most of them are honest and efficient, even though they may be guided by local public opinion in regulatory matters within their particular jurisdictions.

A state bureau of identification with a small group of technically trained men to co-operate with county officers might be considered, but a "King's Own Guard" is not needed or wanted.

There are people in this country who are surprised at anything that happens.

A GREAT MAN PASSES ON.

THE death of Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, removes from the American scene a citizen of the highest type, a man of the people regardless of his own great wealth.

One does not have to agree with everything that the Senator espoused to admire the bigness of his heart, the independence of his public life and the courage with which he faced his duty.

Few men in public life had a higher sense of stewardship, few men of great wealth have felt a closer kinship with those less fortunate and few men of his type have been able to look wealthy and powerful interests in the eye and tell them where to head in when they were pressing for advantage.

In many ways the people of Michigan will miss a friend and the people of the United States an unusual servant of the public welfare.

Books, like sermons, will get attention when they have something that the human race wants.

WELL SAID

THE so-called "baby marathon" ended last week in Toronto, Canada, where a few mothers are trying to establish their claims to a fortune left by a man some years ago to the most prolific mother in Toronto for a period of ten years.

If there was any sense in the bequest of the Canadian lawyer it has long since lost its value in what Premier Hepburn calls the "most revolting and disgusting exhibition ever put on in a civilized country."

New Orleans Times-Picayune pertinently heads an editorial "Halloween Hoodlums," referring to a number of young men, representing a better class of State street residents, who deliberately destroyed valuable property on the night of Oct. 31.

ARMISTICE DAY THOUGHTS.

ARMISTICE DAY will soon be here again to remind us of the services rendered the nation by the men and women who took part in the World War.

It is a day set aside for the glory of the illustrious dead, the patriots who gave their lives for the country which they loved. No matter what impelled them, the sacrifice they made cannot be exceeded by others alive today. It is well that a nation stops in its busy rush to pay tribute to the sailors, soldiers, marines, nurses and others who perished.

On the occasion of Armistice Day there is another class of citizens entitled to special consideration at the hands of this Republic. This group includes the wounded and the families of those who died, leaving dependent wives, mothers and children without adequate means of support. They should not be permitted to suffer—not as long as there is a member of the American Legion or any other legion to fight their cause.

Unfortunately, the suspicion exists in the minds of many citizens that the surviving veterans of the war are not as deeply concerned with the welfare of this last-named group as they should be. The hardly-concealed insinuation is that strong, healthy and hale veterans are today more concerned with what surviving veterans can get from the government than they are with the welfare of fatherless children and busbandless wives, the real victims of the war that did not end war.

We do not make the charge as to local veterans on the anniversary of the cessation of hostilities some eighteen years ago. Until it is clearly and incontrovertibly established by the record, we hesitate to believe it possible, but, with reverence to the dead and sympathy to their living dependents, we think that Armistice Day is a good time to take public notice of a suspicion that it is to be answered only by the future conduct of the living survivors of a great war.

DRINKING AT FOOTBALL GAMES.

FOOTBALL fanatics might pause long enough to read the warning recently uttered by President Dodds, of Princeton University who pointed out that "indulgence in alcoholic beverages at football games has assumed proportions which seriously menace the future of the sport as an intercollegiate activity."

The educator is quite correct in saying that such drinking is an offense to the vast majority of spectators. Few people get any pleasure out of the antics of half-drunk half-wits for the simple reason that no one knows how far the fool will go in his misbehavior. If the noisome spectacle of a drink-wreck in the stands adds to the gaiety of a gridiron spectacle we have never been able to catch the joy of the occasion.

It would seem that smart football leaders and writers on sports would have sense enough to realize the danger that undoubtedly exists. Instead we read, in one large city daily, that "drinking at football games is an American institution, like corn on the cob."

Drinking liquor may be the private affair of an individual so long as he imbibes privately and behaves himself in public but when drunk interferes with the rights of other people to enjoy a game that they have paid money to see the question is bigger than a "matter of human rights."

No man, drunk or sober, has a right to be a nuisance to the public around him and if a drunken fool is not a nuisance among spectators, most of whom are sober, we would like to see a nuisance on exhibition.

THE LADY MAY BE RIGHT.

LADY NANCY ASTOR, Virginia-born member of the British Parliament, occasionally visits the United States, speaking her mind on subjects of popular interest.

Recently she told students of Washington and Lee University that the "hope" of freedom in the world largely depended upon the United States and England's standing together. Whether the British-haters in this country are willing to admit it or not, the fact is that Lady Astor comes very close to speaking the truth.

While we would not have the United States involved in any extraneous quarrel and hesitate to suggest any form of alliance with other powers, there is much to be gained frankly recognizing world conditions. Undoubtedly, Democracy throughout the world faces a real threat from nations under the rule of dictators or autocratic groups. Facing this situation, it behooves the Democracies of the world to work together and make a joint contribution to strengthen Democratic nations. If they have a common cause to uphold, common sense should encourage them to stand together in the face of a common danger.

A DOCTOR ON SPINACH

EVERY once in a while we run across an item of news that merits emphasis in these columns in order that the unwary, who may have overlooked it in the ordinary news columns, will receive the full benefit of the revelation.

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., recently stressed the fact that the same diet did not necessarily mean well for every patient. He has found, for example, that milk is not good for everybody and asserts "it is bad stuff for many people and actually poisonous to others."

The crowning revelation, however, pertains to spinach, which the doctor avers is not "the marvelous food we have long thought it to be." Worse, "it isn't digestible unless it is heavily creamed" and the body "cannot digest spinach sufficiently to benefit from the calcium and iron content of the vegetable."

Boys and girls having spinach rammed down their throats might pass this clipping along to the heads of the house!

And it is not too early to call attention to the mind of the shopper that Christmas is in the offing. Stores that have the better stocks and will make it known through the advertising columns of the newspapers will get the trade. Christmas should prove a big and profitable season to the wide-awake store man. That is why New Orleans gets so much of our local trade, if not the bulk.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING OF MEN AND MATTERS IN EDITORIAL EXPRESSION

HIGHWAY MORALS.

(Biloxi News)
TWO great tragedies, which caused great shock to this section took place over the weekend. In New Orleans a gay Halloween party ended up in a horrible accident, in which three college students were killed and burned to death when their car crashed into an improperly lighted truck. In Gulfport one woman was crushed to death and two men lost legs in a truck-automobile collision yesterday. The tragedies shocked us, not because the people involved were friends, but because of the ghastly manner of their deaths.

Perhaps the fatalist would view the tragedies from a point of "what is to be, will be," since others who were in the crash were only slightly injured. From the standpoint of the person who considers the safety of the highways when thinking of the accidents, it is believed with a great amount of surety that both accidents could have been avoided.

The Louisiana accident is attributed to a violation of the law, according to investigators. In Louisiana trucks are required to set out flares when they are parked so that traffic is warned of the danger created by the parked vehicle. Another angle is that the truck was parked in a traffic lane. Both of these negligences appear to be inexcusable.

The Gulfport accident occurred when the heavily-laden truck and a passenger car collided in an outer section in the business district. The results were as gruesome as the one in New Orleans. Most of the damage was caused here when the trailer of the truck became detached.

Recently we have advocated the elimination of the freight truck hazard from the highways, particularly in Harrison county. We also urged that Mississippi's Highway Department, or other responsible traffic-regulating body in the State,

PROPHECIES FROM TOYS.

(N. O. Times-Picayune)
TOYS for next Christmas, as displayed at the annual New York toy show, are decidedly less military than those of last year. Local observation does not confirm that, but the season is in its infancy. Each year the wisecracks say toys reflect the future, but recently a savvy dug up the fact that the season of 1913 was notable for the relative scarcity of wooden soldiers and tin guns, whereas the next summer brought the most disastrous conflict in history. In 1936, we are told, even the gangster motif has dwindled, though we fail to find any diminution in the number of small boys playing cops and robbers, a pastime that must be considerably older than history. The current miniature lethal weapons fear a G-man tump, which suggests that there must be somebody for the F. B. I. juvenile to shoot at.

The streamline's still the thing in vehicles, the quintuplets are bigger girls and more maturely garbed, the airplane is much in evidence, but basic models for playthings have changed little in a decade or perhaps a score of centuries. The child still plays with miniatures of the utensils his parents put to a more serious purpose, and prophesying on toys is about as safe as predicting the tangent we adults will take. However, there is one decidedly reassuring forecast—that the nation's toy bill will be 15 per cent higher than it was last year—and this ought to make for happiness if not for peace.

adopt measures requiring trucks parked on the highways to set out danger signals in the vicinity of the vehicles, still more recently we urged that a separate highway be constructed, over which the trucks would be required to travel and avoid the more congested areas used by passenger cars. These two accidents, deplorable as they were, seem to be costly proof substantiating our contentions.

AUTUMN LEAVES

Oh, see the Autumn leaves now fall,
Each one a buried hope;
But memories bright they oft re-call,
Reflected 'on life's slope.

Oh, see how madly they now dance,
In wild wind's bitter song;
In pity round they seem to glance,
As over the ground they throng.

Oh see the wild leaves, in mad gale,
Symbolic of life's storm;
The many dreams that fade and pale,
Which in Spring's arms were born.

Oh leaves that were so green last year,
With faces brown and red;
Over you I will drop a tear,
Like you my heart has bled.

The snow will cover you so soft,
And bury you quite dead;
Oh leaves, with you I'd soar aloft,
And gently fall asleep.

People who think that the voters of the United States will elect a President next week are mistaken. The next president will be elected on January 6, when the Senate and the House of representatives, in joint session, count the electoral votes cast by the representatives of the forty-eight states by mail. The next presidential term will begin on January 20, instead of on March 4th, as heretofore.

HARVEST KING AND QUEEN FESTIVAL IS EVENT OF SEASON

Event of Last Friday Evening Scored Signal Success—Miss Irmabelle Fahey Is Charming and Enchanting as Queen.

St. Stanislaus Gym was well filled with an admiring and appreciative audience on Friday evening of last week to witness the arrival of King and Queen of the Harvest Festival, staged annually in Bay St. Louis, to view the members of the court as they entered and later the triumphal march.

Twenty-odd maids, gowned in varied colors of evening dress, entered from main entrance to the hall, thru on and thence to the edge of the stage, each led by a member of the floor committee. Arriving at the goal of march each maid was presented to her duke, in waiting. Following this entry, couples walking at space of ten feet, then the beautiful queen, Miss Irmabelle Fahey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund F. Fahey, followed, escorted by Mr. Kenneth W. Pepperdine.

The king, Mr. Frank Fagan, awaited the presentation of the queen and immediately both assumed their positions on the stage.

The queen was immediately surrounded by a bevy of charming children, attired in the regulation white satin court costumes. Gaynel Gex immediately preceded the queen as the flower bearer of honor. Her aids were young misses Carol Ann Beringer and Perez. Pages, Rita and Margaret Boh. Train bearers, Patsy Gex and Kay Ford.

Miss Fahey looked exquisite in a dress of white and full skirt of silk tulle. She wore over this a tight-fitting bodice of silver sequin, jeweled and long in waist. Her beauty and splendor were heightened by a medallion collar of stones and pearls. From her shoulders she wore a long mantle train of rose colored satin, hand embroidered with decorative designs, created particularly on this occasion. It fell in great length to and over the floor. She was the living personification of charm and her attire accentuated her youth in all its beauty. Her costume was typical of her gracious personality, and her portrayal of the part and honor could not have been better typified. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The maids carried arm bouquets of wild flowers from the harvest forest.

The harvest theme was carried out in full accord. On the stage there was a wealth of gold and red foliage, reeds, cane, shrubs, etc. The hall was decorated with long streamers of crepe paper. From each of the suspended light globes long streamers of paper hung in colorful folds. The high ceiling was partly hid with ribbon-like streamers of paper and festooned in graceful effect. It was evident that great pains and much time had been spent by the ladies in charge. Their task was a great one. They did it as a labor of love. And how well they succeeded is best attested to by the unanimous admiration expressed from time to time by those present.

Following the court ceremony, the floor was given over to members of the first five numbers after which the general public danced to the strains of the Aristocrat until long after midnight. And there came to an end an event not soon to be forgotten; one that will indelibly impress itself and remain as a memory of most pleasant association and lasting pleasure.

This event was given under the auspices of the Mothers' Club at St. Stanislaus college and proceeds appropriated to the college bus fund. Mrs. Edouard C. Carriere, president of the club, was in charge, assisted by Mesdames Edmund F. Fahey, K. W. Pepperdine, J. J. Grevenberg, H. C. Glover, J. W. Bryan, Ralph Ragan, Claud Monti, J. MARGUERITE CLARK, FORMER SCREEN STAR, SELLS AIRWAY LINE

Severs Connection With Wedell-Williams Company Following Husband's Death

Marguerite Clark Williams, former star of the screen and stage, now a resident of New Orleans, has severed her connections with the air transportation business, almost as abruptly as she entered it, by sale of her interests.

Wife of the late Harry P. Williams, millionaire sportsman and air enthusiast; the former screen idol took over the presidency of the Wedell-Williams Air Service Corporation after her husband crashed to death last spring near Baton Rouge.

Williams had founded the air line several years ago together with the late Jimmy Wedell, noted speed pilot. It operated a passenger and express service between Houston, Texas and New Orleans.

Announcement was made that the Wedell-Williams line had been sold to Eastern Air Lines, operating between New York and New Orleans. The announcement was made simultaneously by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, acting for the purchasing organization, and E. D. Dennis, vice president of the New Orleans concern.

Details of the transaction were not disclosed, but Captain Rickenbacker or stated that the Houston-New Orleans air line, would continue to be operated under the name of the Wedell-Williams Division of Eastern Airlines. Mrs. Williams had specified that the name of her husband be retained.

Although an official statement was lacking it was understood that the present personnel of the line will not be disturbed. The purchase is subject to approval of the U. S. Postal Department with which the Wedell-Williams line has an airmail contract.

Following her husband's death Mrs. Williams operated the business for five months, turning down four previous offers submitted by major aviation firms.

Mr. Prados had been in ill health for the past seven years, it was stated, and his death was attributed by a summoned physician to a heart attack.

THE ECHO'S COOKING CLASS

Dedicated to Mrs. Ralph Ragan

OYSTERS may be served the year around; the fresh ones are fabulous during the summer months because of their poor flavor, but canned oysters which are wholesome may be eaten at any time. For the oyster stew the small ones are preferred, while the large ones are best for other dishes. In preparing oysters, run the oysters through the fingers so that every bit of shell may be removed. Then rinse in cold water.

Baked Oysters and Macaroni

2 cups cooked macaroni
1 pint oysters
Crumbs
4 tablespoons butter
½ cup grated cheese
½ cup light cream
Salt, pepper, paprika
Use a greased baking dish about 7 inches in diameter and 3 inches deep. Cover the bottom of the dish with crumbs. Add a layer of macaroni and sprinkle with grated cheese. Add a layer of the oysters, sprinkle with the crumbs, pepper, salt and paprika. Make alternate layers of the macaroni and oysters until the dish is filled, leaving a layer of oysters and crumbs on top. Add the heated cream from the side of the dish. Bake in an oven 400 degrees until the crumbs are brown.

Oyster Shortcake

½ pound mushrooms
1 tablespoon of finely diced onion
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
1½ cups of small fresh oysters including liquor.
½ cup diced tender celery
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Salt, pepper
Shortcake or baking powder biscuits.

Saute the mushrooms and onion in the butter. Add the flour and mix. Gradually add the milk and stir until thick and smooth. Add the oysters, celery, lemon juice and parsley. Season to taste with paprika and salt. Cook over the hot water until the edges of the oysters begin to curl. Serve hot between and over sections of shortcake or baking powder biscuits.

Scalloped Oysters

1 pint oysters
¾ cups of finely rolled cracker crumbs
2 cups milk
½ cup melted butter
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
Mix the oysters and crackers so that the oysters break apart slightly. Add the butter and the eggs beaten thoroughly. Season with salt and pepper. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Bake 45 minutes in an oven 375 degrees.

Broiled Oysters on Toast

Select large oysters, place on toast. Melt 2 tablespoons oil, butter, add 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and pepper. Pour over oysters, put in oven 350 degrees and cook until oysters are curled.

Fried Oysters

2 dozen oysters
2 eggs
Fine bread crumbs
Seasoning
Wipe each oyster dry and sprinkle with salt. Beat the eggs just enough to mix. Dip oysters into the egg, then drop each oyster in the bread crumbs which should be spread on a plate. When coated with crumbs, fry a golden brown in deep fat. Drain on paper and serve with sauce. Tyrolienne made by adding ¼ tablespoon each of chopped parsley, capers and gherkins and ½ cup of chili sauce to 1 cup of mayonnaise.

Panned Oysters

1 quart oysters
4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons finely grated onion
1 teaspoon parsley, chopped
Pepper, paprika
1 cup top milk on thin cream
Toast
Drain the oysters in a colander, removing all juice. Place the butter in a frying pan until it melts. Add the grated onion, oysters, salt, pepper and paprika. Cook for 5 minutes or until the oysters curl on the edges. Add the cream and parsley and serve immediately on buttered toast.

"THE GORGEOUS HUSSY" FIRST PICTURE TO GIVE STAR QUARTET OF LEADING MEN!

Five distinguished actors of peculiarly contrasting characteristics, four of them as lovers, were required to impersonate the men who figured in the life of glamorous Peggy O'Neal in "The Gorgeous Hussy," which opens at the A. & G. Theater Sunday and continues Monday.

Joan Crawford, in the title role of this historical romance from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, portrays the lovely daughter of a Washington tavern keeper during the administration of President Andrew Jackson. Jackson himself, played by Lionel Barrymore, the veteran star whose engaging personality has captured millions through the years of his brilliant career.

Robert Taylor, Hollywood's most spectacular young star of the moment, plays the part of Timberlake, the dashing seaman who made swift love to Peggy O'Neal and swept her off her feet.

Francis Tone portrays Eaton, the suave Secretary of War, who married the little spitfire and was sent away as Ambassador to Spain when Washington revolted against her.

Melvyn Douglas portrays the tragic senator from Virginia, John Randolph, who loved the girl more deeply than all the others, yet lost her when he remained true to his own ideals.

James Stewart appears as the Capitol Hill newspaper man, in love with Peggy O'Neal herself, but remaining a constant friend long after he knew the futility of his emotion.

"The Gorgeous Hussy" is the first picture to provide a reigning star with four romantic leading men. As the tavern-keeper's daughter, Miss Crawford makes good use of all of them.

Famed Choir Sings Negro Spirituals
Old Southern melodies and Negro spirituals of the period of 1825 are sung by the Crinoline Choir of Los Angeles in "The Gorgeous Hussy," coming Sunday and Monday to the A. & G. Theater.

The choir appears in several scenes. Two of its numbers are "Raise a Ruckus Tonight," and "One Morning Soon."

'I'll Do My Own Voting' Obliquing Vice-President Is Told.

Uvalde, Tex., Nov. 3.—Vice-President John N. Garner "dropped one in" today for President Roosevelt, himself and the whole Democratic ticket. Undismayed by the fact his ballot was No. 13, he voted for party nominees "straight," while a cold north wind whistled about the outdoor voting booths. Mrs. Garner's ballot was No. 14. Mrs. Garner didn't want to be hurried. "I need a little more time," she objected. "Oh, just put an 'X' after each Democrat," the vice-president told her. "I'll do my own voting," she retorted.

Mrs. Margaret Flint Jacobs to Review Her Novel Monday Afternoon

Mrs. Margaret Flint Jacobs, author of "The Old Ashburn Place," will review her novel in the sun room of the Hotel Weston on Monday, Nov. 9th, at 3:45 p. m. Mrs. C. C. McDonald will also give a talk on Mrs. Jacobs' book which will be an additional attraction to the program.

"White Banners," the latest novel by Lloyd C. Douglas, the author of "Magnificent Obsession," has been purchased by the Hancock County Free Library for the pay shelf. Mrs. J. E. Fitzwillson of Pass Christian, has kindly donated eleven books to the library, and Mrs. Edward Heath, now of New Orleans but formerly of Bay St. Louis, has given "Vehement Flame" by Margaret Deland. Five books were presented to the library by Mrs. K. B. Thompson, three of which are children's books. The other two are "Scarab Murder Case" by S. S. Van Dine and "Rolling Stone" by Lowell Thomas. Books purchased for the juvenile reference shelf from Woolworth were "Wild Flowers of America" by Jane Harvey; "Birds, Bk. 1," by Julius King; and "Seeing America" (Photographs and descriptions of 102 leading sights of North America) by James Gilchrist Lawson.

—Both cemeteries of the city were visited by great throngs of people all during the day of All Saints, last Sunday. The prevailing weather was perfect. Both places never presented a more attractive appearance in order and neatness and floral decorations gave mute testimony of the love and reverence with which we regard the day and, of course, the memory of the departed. St. Mary's cemetery shows new lines of landscape and it is planned to further open pathways and avenues to wider and straight lines.

They will spend a while at Hattiesburg, visiting Bay St. Louis from time to time, before returning to their home in the Centennial City.

The friends of Mrs. R. S. Cocks will be pleased to learn that she is regaining her health after a long and serious illness at her home in Selma, Ala. When she is able to travel she will come to the Bay to spend the winter with her brother Mr. Chas. Q. Thompson and his wife at their home in Dunbar avenue. By the touch of a switch register the temperature is controlled. At will. No one need hesitate to attend the "show" on a cold night. The management, always enterprising and progressive, has made it so that patrons will find the A. & G. as comfortable and cozy as the best heated home.

THE TUNG OIL INDUSTRY MAKES FOR GREAT PROMISE ON MISSISSIPPI GULF COAST

those counties that have been more or less impoverished by the cutting out of the long leaf yellow pine timber and whose later agricultural ventures have not proven profitable enough to keep the county government on a self-sustaining basis.

The tung oil was introduced in the United States in 1904, but was not undertaken as an agricultural industry until twenty years later when the first commercial orchards were planted in Florida.

Some of the first trees were planted in Mississippi as an experiment and are still thriving.

Plants are of a hardy nature and no known disease or insects attack them. In the United States there has been found a root knot impediment to the trees growth, but this is believed to result from the type of soil in which the trees are grown. During the growing time of the tree, cattle, horses, mules, goats, sheep, hogs, and poultry may be grazed on the lands upon which cover crops are advised for soil building purposes.

The tung nut and tree are poisonous and disagreeable in taste and animals or birds do not molest either. Due to this, it is not necessary to withdraw lands upon which the tung tree is grown from cultivation of other crops entirely, but often owners of these lands may profitably grow other crops, or raise live stock.

Mr. Crosby in a recent letter, writes that lands in vicinity of Pica-yune have been experimented with in grazing different kinds of animals, is now used for poultry with no ill effect to be noted on the trees.

American grown oil is of a superior quality to the oriental product which has been found to contain impurities, or of an inferior grade, due perhaps to too early harvesting of the nuts from which the oil is extracted.

The refined oil is used in manufacture of fine varnishes, waterproofing paints, materials, etc. The Massey Corporation of Laurel, Mississippi, uses tung oil extensively in waterproofing their product. Even the pomace is used in making boot caulking.

New uses are being found daily for this product and advocates of the industry have expressed the belief that the market for American tung oil is limited to the ability only, of the country to produce it.

The Circus Is Coming To Town.

Well, folks, they're on their way! U. S. Highway 90 is the route and Bay St. Louis the destination!

Last week there was a slight calamity in the zoo, as the elephant stepped on a mama kangaroo's tail while she was carrying two babies in her pouch, but Mrs. Kangaroo is well on the road to recovery and will be fit in time.

The Boa constrictor is also requiring a great deal of attention as the change in diet from his South American food did not at first agree with him.

Don't fail to see the Shy Ann Acrobatic trio! They have arrived from Tokyo and for miniature acrobats, are noted all over the European capitals as the delight of royalty.

There'll be more about the circus next week.

MRS. A. F. FOURNIER RETURNS FROM KING'S DAUGHTERS' MEETING

Attends Thirty-Sixth Annual Session at Yazoo City—To Greenville 1937.

Mrs. A. F. Fournier returned home Sunday from Yazoo City, where she attended the thirty-sixth annual convention of the Mississippi Branch of the King's Daughters and Sons, which was marked with a three-day program, and over which Mrs. Fournier, as State President presided. Her annual message was hailed as one of the best yet delivered and was received with acclaim and given complimentary press notices.

Convention adjourned to meet next year at Greenville, in the delta. Mrs. Fournier says the convention was a decided success from every point of view, and marks the organization as one of the outstanding and most progressive in the State, performing work in His name and alleviating suffering, healing the sick and doing many other features of works of mercy.

During the thirty-six years since the uniting of the circles into the Mississippi Branch the King's Daughters in the state have rendered service to thousands in poverty and distress. They have furnished hospitalization for the needy and given milk and medical attention to many children.

The organization maintains their own hospitals in the state, located at Gulfport, Bay St. Louis, Brookhaven, Greenville, Canton and Yazoo City. There are more King's Daughters hospitals in the state of Mississippi than in any other in the union.

In addition, there is a sanitarium for tuberculosis patients in Meridian and a Rescue Home in Natchez. The latter is the only Rescue Home in the United States owned and operated by The King's Daughters.

The Frances Ewing Gordon Circle in Jackson operates a tonsil clinic, where hundreds of needy children have received attention. This circle also has equipped and supports two rooms in a Jackson hospital.

Other circles throughout the state have engaged in doing much good for their communities. Some furnish milk for needy girls college education and all circles do general welfare work.

At the close of the convention Mrs. Fournier journeyed over to Vicksburg, where she spent Saturday night with friends and reached New Orleans Sunday, making the journey to and fro by rail.

Harry Stuart Saucier, Junior, native Bay St. Louis and son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stuart Saucier, former Bay residents who now make their home at Lafayette, La., and who is a senior at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, was victorious in an orderly election for president of the student body, we learn from the current number of The Vermilion.

That journal says young Saucier piled up a total of 208 votes to 144 for his opponent, Frank Stivison. The new president will fill the position left vacant by Green Lambert who was elected last year, but failed to return to school.

"Mr. Saucier is a senior in the college of education, and has proven himself worthy of the dignity that becomes his office. He has been a leader on the campus for some time. He was president of Kappa Alpha last year, and is vice president of Blue Key, National honorary fraternity. Last year he was also president of Alpha Chi, honorary chemistry fraternity. Besides these scholastic honors the new president has been a member of the varsity football and basketball teams. He is a resident of Lafayette, and a graduate of Lafayette High School."

Young Saucier, while in Bay St. Louis, attended St. Stanislaus College thru his grade school years. In addition to being a scholar and has an enviable record of academic achievements, he is an athlete. He is 6 feet 3 and weighs 215 pounds.

Personal and General

HARVEST FESTIVAL QUEEN COMPLEMENTS COURT WITH DANCE.

MISS Imabelle Fahey, queen of the recent Harvest Festival, entertained her court to a dance at "The Seagull" Wednesday night, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Edmund F. Fahey.

The cold weather was ideal for dancing and the attractive interior of the premises, with the color scheme of red and white, appeared to advantage, with so many of the young set present.

Buffet refreshment was served during the evening, with Mrs. Annette Elmer, hostess-manager, presiding at the punch bowl.

Some sixty odd guests were entertained during the evening that seemingly went by all too quickly.

Young ladies of the recent court and their dukes and others indirectly connected with the court, in addition to a few close friends, constituted the guest list.

Mrs. Fahey and her lovely young daughter were untiring in their gracious attentions, receiving the guests and ever solicitous as to their pleasure throughout the evening.

The affair was one of marked pleasure of beauty and charm in every detail and success marked its most minute detail of arrangement and entertainment.

"BLUE HEAVEN" SCENE OF SMART ALL HALLOWE'EN FUNCTION SATURDAY.

Miss L. C. Del Bondio and Miss Marie E. Bertrand were hosts on All Halloween (Saturday) at a supper to some thirty-odd guests at "Blue Heaven," their beautiful and inviting home on Pass Christian beach Boulevard. The guests represented friends from Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian.

For the occasion the interior of the home was appropriately decorated, All Halloween colors of orange and black predominating and combined in tasty and fetching effect.

The long "T" table, in the main living room was set in equal manner and motif. Gold and black blended harmoniously. Table cloth and settings, flower decorations and favors in varied and attractive form all successfully gave the desired atmosphere.

Mr. A. E. Lang gave the toast of the evening. The gentleman responding later said that under the hospitable roof of Miss Del Bondio many beautiful and effective parties had been given, that each succeeding affair revealed something new and striking in decoration; that hardly anything more could be expected, but that on this occasion the beauty of the table and its completeness had exceeded all precedents. That an artistic and intriguing mind had conceived in truth a revelation.

The supper, served in courses continued from 7:30 to 10 o'clock and the time had seemingly gone by all too quickly, guests scarcely realizing they had been there for that duration of time.

Repast, with general conversation winged time, as it were. Miss Del Bondio and Miss Bertrand, who were assisted by Miss Hazel Abbley, are ideal hosts and their hospitality knows no bounds. They entertained both lavishly and beautifully, sparing nothing and the result they again entertained in that manner in which they are so justly famous for in the social art.

Participating in this lovely affair and included in the number were Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Pepperdine, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Rea, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Pitcher, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Evans, Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Shipp, Mrs. Alice Buckley, Mrs. Ed. F. Fahey, Mrs. H. C. Glover, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Moreau, Bay St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lang, Gulfport; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. P. Ambler, Mr. and Mrs. Ad. E. Lang, Mrs. B. E. Christovich, Mrs. B. Burke, Mrs. M. Farrell, Misses Jane Lang, Edna Knost and Misses Leonora Del Bondio, Hazel Abbley, Marie Bertrand, Pass Christian.
